What Our Clients Have To Say...

Damien T. Operations Director

The platform's functionality expands across our full supply chain for multiple users across different sectors of our business. The platform offers additional tools to help in other departments, they are more than just forecasting. Here are some great features that separate Stock IQ from its competitors.

1.The team at StockIQ is a big part of the success for us. As a partner, they are always available to support question and engaged in supporting ways to enhance the data from the system. During the past year they setup forums, discussions, and posted best practices to managing forecasting at a time when it was necessary for all of us.

2. Customization: Being able to tie in Product Hierarchy in several levels allows for customized views for different users and maintain data integrity.

3. Executive Summary page: Allows users to gain quick insight and digest what's happening in the business again with filtered views for individuals the ability to focus on.

4. Inventory Analysis: The Stratification section provides a transparent cross-section of information surrounding Product Performance as it relates to On Hand Inventory.

5. Firm and Planned tool: Organize your forecast needs for both short term and long term by hierarchy, great for sales Goals and Budgeting projections.

6. Pivot tables: Being able to drive into data and saving the views is of great benefit.

7. Alerts: There are lots of alerts on the platform that can be managed by the user's responsibilities.

Rhonda C.
Director of Purchasing & Tech

The biggest pro of StockIQ is their team; they are honest, and they stand behind their product. It's rather refreshing. As for features, the product is intuitive and easy to navigate. A (new for me) favorite feature is ability to look at forecasts at various levels of the hierarchy, make major adjustments at any level with just a few clicks, and review and modify from there without having to spend hours adjusting individual forecasts. This has become an essential task due to the extreme swing in demand caused by the pandemic.

1. Able to export date to Excel for use in reports.
2. SIQ team has been able to make custom reports as well when we request info needed.
3. Able to upload data from Excel as needed for pricing, item change replacements, lead time overrides, etc.
4. Quick response by IT team when issues arise.

Madhuvanthi S. - Supply Chain Manager

I like that the software works to fit your needs, rather than us having to change our processes to fit the software's needs. Customer support and training are amazing, and the team truly wants you to have the best experience with their software. I cannot sing enough praises about the people behind Stock IQ!

Andy S. - Supply Chain Manager

The all-encompassing approach and the ways to produce data in a way that allows for simple alignment to your business strategy is just great. The GUI is friendly with a great deal of info, the support team are just great.
