Unify commerce and the back office with the Acumatica connector for Shopify

Data and process gaps between your commerce platform and ERP system can cause chaos for sellers of any size. Without bidirectional, real-time data shared between the systems, it's difficult to ensure the inventory you're selling across different channels is accurate and available. Manual processes slow down fulfillment and hamper visibility, and it's challenging to offer customers seamless omnichannel experiences. All of these problems only multiply as your business grows.

Integrating your commerce and ERP solutions enables you to have the synchronized, real-time data you need to better serve customers, optimally manage inventory, free employees from time-consuming manual work, and gain the insights you need to grow.

Better together: Acumatica + Shopify

Acumatica is a modern, cloud-native, commerce-specialized ERP system that offers an intuitive and friendly platform for all your critical business data, including products, customers, orders, fulfillment, and finance. Committed to providing commerce companies with smooth operations, Acumatica offers a native Shopify connector, no extra software necessary.

It automatically syncs with Shopify's extensive commerce options, including Shopify Payments, DTC, B2B, and POS. With two-way data flows, the challenges of siloed commerce and ERP systems fall away. No more duplicate data entry, unexpected inventory surprises, or manual handoff between orders and fulfillment, billing, and accounting that slow business down.
